ACKNOWLEDGMENTS

For a project such as this, I have had the benefit of the assistance of numerous individuals who have supported and encouraged me to complete this project. Over the years I have been employed at several universities that have supported my research agenda and field work in Egypt. Thanks thus go to the Department of History, Northern Arizona University (Flagstaff, AZ), the Global Studies Program at California State University, Monterey Bay (Seaside, CA) and the Department of History, World Languages, and Philosophy at Indiana University East (Richmond, IN). Because of my status as an emeritus professor at Northern Arizona University, I have had the pleasure of being able to call on the services of the interlibrary loan department at Cline Library. Over the years they have provided numerous articles which greatly smoothed the way for this work.

Of course, while in Egypt I have benefitted from the assistance of numerous Egyptian colleagues and administrators in the Ministry of Antiquities (formerly the Supreme Council for Antiquities), especially Hisham el-Lethy, Magdy Gandour, Mohammed Bially, Mr. Mohi in Aswan, as well as the several inspectors who helped on a day to day basis: Osama Amer Latif, Tahseen Mohammed Atteya Abd el Motaleb, and Mohammed Baset.

Cornelius von Pilgrim of the Swiss Institute in Egypt on a number of occasions provided kind words, space at Swiss House on Elephantine Island, accommodations at the Swiss Institute in Cairo, as well as sundry equipment (mirrors, ladders, chairs); all of the little stuff that can make a small project such as mine possible to finish. For this I am deeply grateful. Through him I was also introduced to a number of fine scholars and team members of the Swiss and German expeditions in Aswan, especially Drs. Wolfgang Müller (Swiss Institute) and Dietrich Raue (then of the German Institute). I enjoyed many a fine conversation with them and look forward to many more. I want to thank the Binational Fulbright Commission in Egypt for providing me with a Fulbright Research Fellowship to work on this project. Special thanks go to Bruce Lohoff, then director of commission in Egypt. He and the staff at the commission were most kind in making my projected teaching–research Fulbright Fellowship in 2007 into a full research one. Their support greatly aided this and several other of my field projects. During that field season I was also able to enjoy the comradery of Drs. Pamela Rose and Alan Clapham who were digging in Aswan on the EES expedition. They were gracious hosts in sharing their team dinners and drinks at their dig apartment and around Aswan. I want to thank Dr. Steve Vinson, my colleague at the Indiana University, Bloomington. Steve and I have been working on several projects and he was most gracious in agreeing to come down to Philae in 2009, and both take numerous photographs of graffiti, as well as offer a number of suggestions on readings of texts. In 2011 Tom Logan from Carmel, California, assisted me on detailing the location plans of all of the texts in the temple. His logistical contacts that season were most welcome.

In all of my seasons in Egypt I have had the gracious hospitality of several friends. Dr. Salima Ikram, and her husband Nick, always welcomed me with friendly conversation, dinners, drinks, and parties whenever I was passing through Cairo. As an old “Kharga hand,” Salima was most kind to invite me out for one season of the North Kharga Oasis Survey. I still owe her several graffiti publications and promise to get them finished soon now that this project will not be consuming my time. In Cairo and Thebes the late Ted Brock has been most gracious showing me many an interesting site as well as supplying great stories. I want to thank Sylvie Cauville who generously provided me a copy of her and Ibrahim Ali’s nice volume on Philae Temple. It was a most thoughtful gesture.

While working on this volume I was asked to serve on the dissertation committee of Solange Bumbaugh, a doctoral candidate at the University of Chicago. Her dissertation (to be defended in 2015) entitled “Calling Out to Isis: The Enduring Nubian Presence at Philae” overlapped a great deal with some of the commentary I have offered in this volume. We shared results on a regular basis and I look forward to the imminent completion of her work.

Over the years I have had the pleasure of receiving advice on difficult readings on a number of texts. I want to thank Jan Johnson, Mark Depauw, Joe Manning, Richard Jasnow, Peter Piccione, Steve Vinson, Jackie Jay, Emily Teeter, Bob Ritner, Brian Muhs, Karl-Theo Zauzich, and Foy Scalf, for their comments. I especially want to thank François Gaudard. Frankie has been most unstinting in looking over a draft of the introductory chapter and many texts, offering suggestions on how to better understand them and good criticisms on many a bad reading I had made. This work would not have been completed as easily without his suggestions. I apologize to anyone whom I may have inadvertently left off of this list. Of course, all of the mistakes herein are mine.

Lastly, I want to thank my wife Kathy. She has been a steady supporter throughout my career and has put up with my many idiosyncracies. I hope I can repay her in some small way.
